Brad Hall has been a shareholder with Lyons Gaddis Kahn & Hall, P.C. since 1994. He joined the firm in 1991 after practicing law for four years in a large commercial litigation firm in Kansas City, Missouri. Brad's practice is primarily focused in the areas of personal injury and workers' compensation. Since 1991, Brad has helped hundreds of clients get the compensation they deserve for their injuries, whether the injury occurred on the job or as a result of the negligence of another person.

Brad represents clients in many areas of personal injury including auto, truck, and motorcycle accidents, premises liability accidents, explosions, dog bite cases and wrongful death. He handles all cases involving on-the-job injuries.

On behalf of his clients, Brad has successfully negotiated numerous large settlements with insurance companies and obtained verdicts in court when an insurance company was unwilling to pay what was fair and appropriate.

Brad is active in the community, having served on the Lehman YMCA Board of Directors, and volunteers numerous hours to other community causes.
